

Module description

Academic Presentations

How to rock the show.

Time:	Friday, 25.04. from 13:00 to 16:00 at HFT (face-to-face) Friday, 02.05. from 13:00 to 16:00 at HFT (face-to-face) Friday, 06.06. from 13:00 to 16:00 at HFT (face-to-face) Friday, 20.06. from 13:00 to 16:00 at HFT (face-to-face)
Course Language:	All lectures and course materials are in English
Credits:	2 ECTS for exchange students
Lecturer:	Peter Kampermann
Assessment	Written exercises & presentation
Prerequisites:	English Level B2
Level:	Bachelor's and Master's level
Teaching Format:	Workshops, self-study in the form of written exercises. (Information on the implementation, e.g. enrollment key Moodle course, link to Zoom meeting, etc. you will receive about a week before the start of the event.)

Content

How can I show my expertise in an academic setting? How can I raise interest for my research topics? How do I defend my thesis and convince an academic audience? Academic presentations are a key qualification for students and researchers of all fields and at all stages of their academic career.

At our first appointment, we will explore the question: What makes a great presentation? We will analyse selected presentations and discuss the right strategy for a presentation scenario of your choice.

At our second appointment, we will explore the question: What makes great presentation slides? We will explore various approaches to academic visuals and start to create your slides.

At our third appointment, we will explore the question: What makes a great performance? We will discuss the performance of selected keynote speakers and practice the introduction to your academic presentation.

At our fourth appointment, you will hold your presentations and receive constructive feedback on your performance.

Objectives:

Participants of the workshop will gain:

- A clear understanding for the challenges of Academic Presentations
- Practical competence in preparing presentation visuals
- Practical competence in presenting an academic topic

After successful participation you will receive a certificate of attendance.

