

GISday

Friday, November 27, 2020

GIS Day is an event has been performed annually worldwide, created by Esri Inc in 1999 in association with other geographic entities in the USA, seeking to promote GIS and show how they help to understand better our planet. Today more than 75 countries celebrate GIS Day and around 700 events will take place around the world. At Hochschule für Technik Stuttgart this Friday 27.11.2020 will be the first version of this geographic experience, we hope it will be fun for everyone learning how to share spatial information.

Operation Dashboard for ArcGIS

Join Us and learn about Operation Dashboard for ArcGIS. The goals included in this practice will be:

- Sharing local spatial information as web maps.
- Configuration of web maps to be displayed into a Dashboard template.
- Configuration of Operation Dashboard to show statistical results from the queries.

Register Now

Agenda:

09:00 – 10:15: Explanation of the event and the exercise to do.

10:15 – 10:30: Break.

10:30 – 12:30: Carrying out of the exercise and solution of doubts from the tutor assistant.

12:30 – 13:00: Lunch

13:00 – 13:30: Presentation, score from all the participants to each Dashboard, and award.